MINISTER'S MESSAGE

Inverted Morality

Much of the book of Proverbs is about contrasts. There is a constant contrast between the righteous person and the wicked person. Same goes for a repeated contrast between the wise person and the fool. Solomon writes in Proverbs 13:19 saying, "Desire realized is sweet to the soul, but it is an abomination to fools to turn away from evil." This gives us a look into the psyche of a person with an inverted sense of morality.

It is obvious that every person is endowed with the knowledge of objective moral truths. Despite that, the deceitful and wicked heart (Jer. 17:9) will use our desires against us and will turn us into who Solomon described just a few verses prior. He writes in Proverbs 13:5, "A righteous man hates falsehood, but a wicked man acts disgustingly and shamefully." Where we should have a propensity to do good, we allow ourselves to be carried away and enticed to do evil (Jas. 1:14). And by doing that, as Solomon wrote, it gets to where to do good and reject evil is unnatural. For the Christian affected by sin, it is our job to get back in touch with our roots, as we were created in the image of God to be like Him (Gen. 1:26-27). So instead of allowing our hearts to invert our sense of morality, let us trust in the LORD with all our hearts and not lean on our own understanding (Prov. 3:5).
